

George Fox Song 2019

By Cody Lowry

I am called by Spirit to write these new lyrics to the well-known "George Fox Song."

(Note: for those less familiar with Penn's quotes, an online search will provide them with sufficient contextual background to unravel the "diverse liveries" reference.)

There's a Light that was shining when the worlds began,
and a Light that shines in every woman and in every man, there's a Light that is shining in the Muslim and Hebrew,
and It's shining in the Pagan, Christian, Buddhist, and Hindu.

Chorus:

Walk in the Light, wherever you may be (x2)
In our dusty blue jeans and our diverse liveries,
we will sing these songs in harmony for all eternity.

With some words and some symbols and some trolls and twitter feed, they would bind the Light forever but they can't say we,
for the words will be cherished and the trolls will learn to see,
and the Light will keep on shining as it does infinitely.

(Chorus)

If we give you an army will you kill in God's name, but you can't blame the scapegoat for that kind of insane,
will you swear to keep sacred all the words of the Torah,
but the Spirit is more holy than the letter of the Law.

(Chorus)

There's an ocean of deception and it feeds a bloody sea,
but the Light will always lift us into receptivity,
for the Light is the Eternal Flame within of Liberty,
but It's not the kind of Freedom that we get to keep for free.

(Chorus)
